

THE ROOM WHERE IT HAPPENS

Game on with interior design darling Katie Davis, whose latest project is nothing short of parlor perfection. BY RACHEL FEINBLATT

Let's face it—the past few years have demanded an extra dose of family time and mahjong and Rummikub tournaments. For interior design maven Katie Davis of Katie Davis Design (katedavisdesign.com), crafting the perfect game room to accommodate a young Houston family's needs was a challenge she was apt to complete. The front room, formerly a dumping ground for the kids' toys, was the area of focus—to create a space that was formal enough to be seen from the front door, but casual enough for a family game night. After much thought, Davis put her design skills to the test, crafting a salon that doubled as a game room.

In order to match the luxury and sophistication of the rest of the home, the designer layered a fresh mix of patterned textiles and dreamy blue hues. Some quintessential design elements include built-in bookshelves, a custom velvet sectional, a game table and upholstered ottoman for additional seating. Comfy but tailored silhouettes make this the ultimate hangout heaven for all members of the family. ◦
